THE DECISION WON BY W. R. HEARST AGAINST THE COAL TRUST

The defendants (the Coal Trust) by this decision are ordered to produce their books, papers, contracts and other information sought by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and to answer all questions that may be put by said commission having a bearing upon the charge that the Temple Iron Company is merely a creature of the Coal Trust and used to maintain a monopoly in the anthracite coal trade, and to keep up the prices for the product of the mines of the defendants.

SLAYER KNOWN

GREATEST OF VICTORIES FOR THE PEOPLE. HEARST WINS FIGHT AGAINST COAL TRUST

U. S. Supreme Court Decides the Barons Must Produce Their Books and Answer Questions Relating to Coal Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, APRIL 4.—THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT TO-DAY DECIDED THE COAL TRUST SUIT IN FAVOR OF CONGRESSMAN WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

JUDGE DAY READ THE OPINION OF THE COURT, WHICH REVERSED THE DECISION OF JUDGE LACOMBE, OF THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK.

THE DECISION ORDERS THE COAL BARONS TO PRODUCE ITS BOOKS AND CONTRACTS AND TO ANSWER THE QUESTIONS ASKED BY INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION. EDWARD MOSELY, SECRETARY OF THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION, WHO WAS PRESENT WHEN THE COURT HANDED DOWN THE DECISION, SAID IT WAS THE BIGGEST VICTORY IN YEARS ACHIEVED IN THE INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE.

The court holds in effect that it was the intention of Congress to allow appeals in such cases. It, therefore, denies the motion of the coal barons, who moved to dismiss the appeal, on the ground that the decision of Judge Lacombe was not a final decision and, therefore, was not properly before the court on appeal.

This court holds that Mr. Hearst's suit brought before the Interstate Commerce Commission was of the class intended by Congress in the act of 1903 to be brought direct before the Court of Appeals.

BOOKS AND PAPERS NECESSARY.

The decision dwells at length on that part of the Interstate Commerce Commission law which says no suit shall be dismissed because the complainant is not an actual sufferer by reason of discrimination by the railroads. The commission is charged under the law to conduct the investigation, the court says, and to conduct the investigation it is necessary to have certain papers, books and contracts.

These, the court says, the witnesses refused to produce. The court holds that the contracts and books ought to have been put in evidence and the questions asked of the witnesses should have been answered.

Justice Day, who read the decision, announced that Justice Brewer dissented.

The Department of Justice was represented in court by Solicitor General Hoyt and Assistant Attorney-General Purdy. They were greatly pleased with the decision.

FULL COURT PRESENT.

All the members of the court were present, and as soon as the

POLICE TRACK THE MURDERER OF MABEL PAGE!

Suspect Seen Near Page Home on Day of Crime—Denied He Had Been There—Refused to Go Near the House and When He Heard He Was Mentioned in the Case He Disappeared—He Had a Bad Reputation—Knew the Pages Well—Officers Now Seeking Him

EVENTS MOVED RAPIDLY IN THE PAGE MURDER MYSTERY THIS AFTERNOON. THE POLICE HAVE CENTRED ALL THEIR ATTENTION AND ACTIVITY UPON ONE MAN. THEY BELIEVE NOW THAT THE MAN REFERRED TO COMMITTED THE MURDER. THEY KNOW HIS NAME, AND ALL THE SUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES SURROUNDING HIM FROM THE MORNING OF THE MURDER UP TO TODAY.

ALL OTHER SUSPECTS FOR THE TIME BEING HAVE BEEN ELIMINATED FROM THE CASE. THE POLICE SAY THE CIRCUMSTANCES SO FAR KNOWN WARRANT THE MAN'S ARREST. THIS MAY TAKE PLACE AT ANY MOMENT. THE SUSPECT, OF COURSE, MAY BE ABLE TO PROVE AN ALIBI.

OHM, EITOD EHL ARE TRYING TO CLEAR THE MYSTERY THAT SHROUDS THE MURDER OF MABEL PAGE THIS AFTERNOON DISCOVERED THE FIRST TANGIBLE CLUE UPON WHICH TO WORK WITH SOME HOPE OF SUCCESS.

THEY BELIEVE THEY KNOW WHO COMMITTED THE CRIME, AND A SEARCH FOR THE SUSPECT HAS BEGUN.

After the funeral at the Page home, Police Chief Vitton and State Detectives Whitney and Dunham conferred as to the most effective way to utilize the information that has come into their possession.

These are the chief points upon which the police are now working.

The man admits he was in the vicinity of the Page home on the day and at the hour the crime was committed. He knew the Pages well and the habits of Harold Page, the brother of the murdered woman.

He appeared agitated shortly after the time of the murder, and before it was known to the public, friends say, and refused to take a walk with one of them in the direction of the Page home.

The reputation of the man is such, the police declare, as to justify them in making a searching investigation into his movements on the day the crime was committed.

The man was in Weston the day of the murder, although he had told some of his relatives he was going to Boston.

To-day the man was not in his usual haunts, and relatives of his said that he had left the city, and it would be uncertain when he would return.

The man told at least one man that he was going far away from this part of the country. All of these facts are being carefully sifted by the police and District Attorney Sanderson.

As to the motive, the man could have had for the crime the police are in the dark. They believe that it may have been done for other reasons for a fancied injury or wounds on the woman's body, and who has posed for an artist for the AMERICAN figures showing how each wound was made.

This blow was a glancing one, below the collar bone and near the shoulder on the left side. It had a downward direction, and was about three inches deep. The blow was still falling, and the assailant was evidently not reckoning on the attack, for he was not yet and he felt that another strike must be made in the throat. He was in a rage, and his aim was every minute getting worse. This was also a glancing blow, as the wound shows that the knife left the body as swiftly as it entered.

This blow was a vicious stab in the abdomen. It entered the left side near the waist, and inclined downward, penetrating the bowels. The blow had evidently given up his attack on the throat and was aiming for the heart, but his aim, becoming weak from his efforts, and his eye closed, his aim was poor and he struck too low. It is possible that the blow, which was every second getting farther and farther away, both in aim and in force, was the last blow that he struck.

This blow entered the left side considerably below the waist. It was a deep blow and rather rougher than the one preceding it. The blow was somewhat slower than the others, as it did not leave the body as cleanly, causing an ugly wound. By the manner it entered, it showed that the body was slowly turning away from the assassin, and this movement would account for the greater roughness with which the wound was made.

This blow (or blows) was upon the right hand, and was undoubtedly caused by the woman's unswerving grasping with the knife of the assailant. While the blow had been landing upon the body, the hands were convulsively seized by the hand, for the case were on the thumb and on the fingers, showing that such sharp edge of the weapon had left its mark. At the time the convulsion was undoubtedly followed, and was trying to get away, but the lifeless figure of the dead woman bothered him.

successful experience in trailing criminals than the officials from whom they sought some hint as to which to work.

Whether, if the most skilled detective-reporter in the country arrived in Weston yesterday to examine the premises to learn the "lay" of the land, he would be ordered off the premises.

Why? The State police want all the information obtainable for themselves alone. The members of the family, anxious to have the murderer caught, nevertheless refuse to answer a single question which might lead to the detection of the criminal.

Why? The State police have told them to talk only to the State police.

The last two successful arrests by the State police, those of West, the Bangor man, and Williams, who murdered the woman at Lyndhurst, were the result of investigations and disclosures made by reporters. The State police were unable to secure their information to themselves.

Monday the murderers were caught. The day's work done in Weston yesterday by the State police was as follows:

Nothing done up to 11 o'clock.

11 a. m.—Arrival at Page house.

12 m.—Conference with Weston police officials.

1 p. m.—Lunch, conference and smoke.

2:30 p. m.—Rushes exit from house, rear door the road to Atholville.

2 p. m.—Returns from Atholville, journey accomplished.

2:30 p. m.—Conference resumed.

3 p. m.—Conference with reporters.

Nothing new.

3:40 p. m.—Returns to Boston.

The various clues, some of them being not run down by the State police. The reporters, however, carefully investigated each. The police believe they can cope with the difficulty. Their assurance of success is unshaken. After they are finished with whatever clues they are now investigating, if they are not successful, they will be late for the murder, it will be too late for more experienced hands to do so.

Meanwhile the residents of Weston are alarmed. That is why they will be only too glad to pay thousands of dollars if they could be assured that the murderer had been killed and that the killing was final.

MEDIUM INDICATES WHERE CULPRIT IS

"The murderer of Mabel Page" will be found in Worcester," said a medium who was conducting a spiritualistic seance in the New Century Building. As a medium he was answering questions, which were written on pieces of paper and placed in a question box. When Mr. Wigan picked up a slip read:

"Where is the murderer of Mabel Page?"

A tremor shook his frame, and his hand trembled. He answered the question by the communication, which was written on a slip of paper, and which was placed in the question box. The young man who was conducting the seance, and informed Mr. Wigan of the result.

The fact that Miss Page was engaged to be married, and that he was broken off, is a fact which is now being investigated by the State police. It is a fact which is now being investigated by the State police. It is a fact which is now being investigated by the State police.

DEAD GIRL HAD HAT ON BUT NOT SKIRT

One of the most interesting facts in the case is the finding of the body with hat on, and with the walking skirt found folded on the bed.

EXAMINING BROOK WHERE A KNIFE WAS FOUND.

Photograph by Boston American Staff Photographer.

In this brook it was alleged that a knife was found which the police thought might be the weapon used by the man who killed Miss Mabel Page. Close examination, however, convinced the investigators that the wounds on Miss Page's body could not have been made with this weapon.

Removal Talk Is Sequel to Dr. Mead's Lethargy

The criticism heard against Medical Examiner Dr. John A. Mead for having failed to discover that Miss Page had been murdered, has resulted in talk of that of Dr. Mead's removal.

Dr. Mead most pronounced if a case of suicide, and newspaper are now dealing that valuable time was lost in trying the murderer.

So our last Governor Bates has the power to remove Mead, or any other medical examiner.

If there is any talk of removing him it is "up to the Governor to do so," the medical examiner has said in response to his critics.

WILL CLOSE UP FAMILY GONE UNION TRUST CO SO IS BOARDER

As receivers for the Union Trust Company, Judge Barker, of the Supreme Judicial Court, this morning appointed Samuel W. McCall, Conger, and Charles F. Chase, Jr., to close up the affairs of the institution.

Before the appointment there was some argument between H. W. Chase, who represented the Savings Bank Commission, and the Union Trust Company, and W. W. Chase, assistant attorney general, who represented the Savings Bank Commission.

The court held that the temporary institution, restraining the bank from doing business, is still operative, and will hold for a while, at least, though not so as to prevent the bank from doing business.

AS TO REFRIGERATORS

A good Refrigerator lasts a lifetime—remember that! The worst economy consists in getting a Refrigerator that saves for a lifetime rather than only for the day on which it is bought.

We can make a Refrigerator to suit your half what our costs you, and until you tried it, it would be hard to say where it had been cheapened. But we don't sell that class of Refrigerators.

And yet we haven't spent one penny on these Refrigerators except where it was going to result in saving you money afterward. Not a cent has been spent for show—simply for actual life economy.
